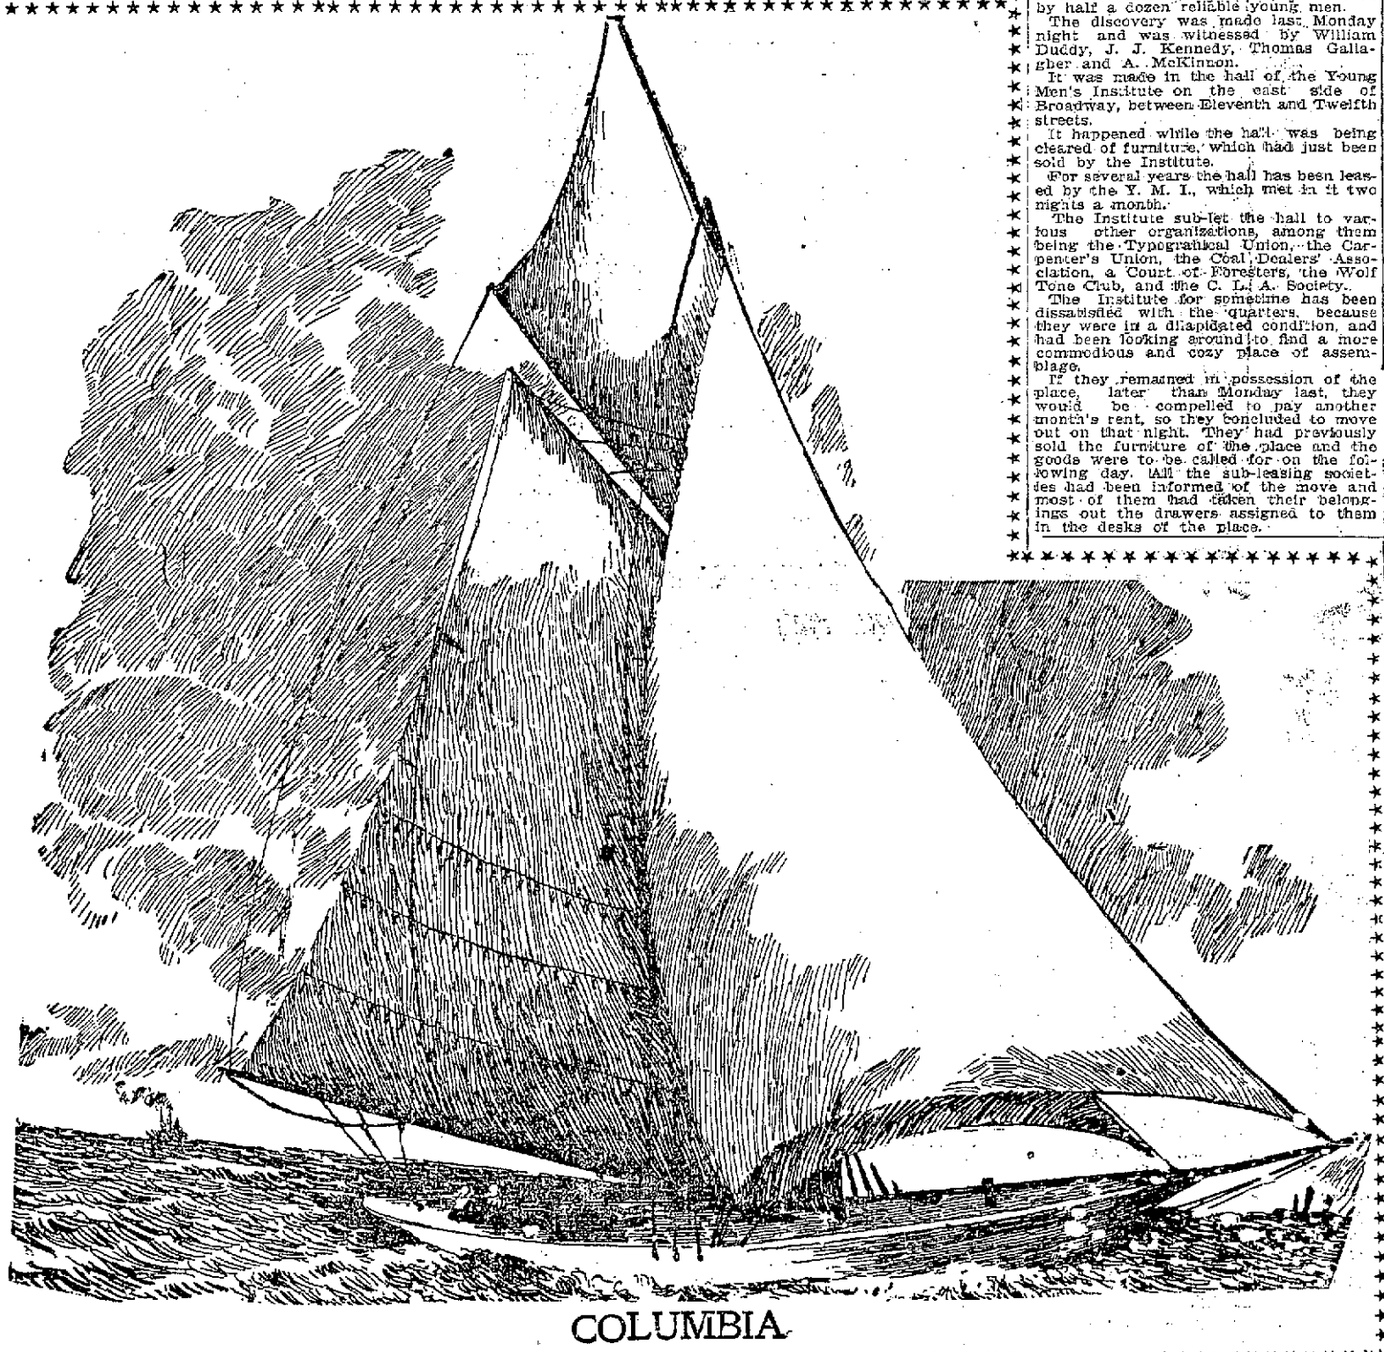
COLUMBIA AHEAD BUT RACE IS OFF.

Wind Too Weak to Permit the Yachts to Finish, Though the American Led All the Way.

HIGHLANDS, 4:02 P. M.—The entire excursion fleet is heading for New York. Both yachts have taken in sails and are being towed to their anchorages at the Hook. The race is off. However, they are five miles southeast of Sandy Hook lightship.



COLUMBIA

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—When New York awoke this morning there was hardly a breath of air stirring, and a blanket of mist hovered over the roofs. But as the sun rose the misty mantle began to flit, while the wind began to veer to the westward and freshen.

At the yacht anchorage off the bay, Long Island, Bay Ridge and Tompkinsville were pretty fleets of steam yachts, intermingled here and there with stately sailing yachts, preparing to take part in the gay parade.

Off the Battery a fleet of about forty newspaper tugs and steam yachts had assembled.

By 7 o'clock the early birds of the draft began to move toward the scene of the contest between Shamrock and Columbia for the much-coveted America's cup.

THOMAS LIPTON'S GUESTS.

Sir Thomas Lipton's chartered tug, the Volunteer, flying the Shamrock flag, left the Battery at 7:40 with 150 of Sir Thomas' guests who were afterward transferred to the sterm yacht Erin, which then proceeded to the racecourse.

Among the guests were Prince Ranjitsinhji, Prince Leopold De Croy, Prince Reginald De Croy, Lord Chief Byron Falles, Sir Horace Tosel, Lord Charles Beresford, Lady Beresford, Hon. Fuller Elphinstone, Henry Seigel, Franklin Ford, Thomas Wanamaker, Rev. Dr. Storrs, Colonel and Mrs. Butler Ames, Rt. Hon. Arnold Morley, Hon. Charles Russell, Rt. Hon. John W. Pierre, Rt. Hon. Jesse Collings, Commodore Nixon, U. S. N.; Admiral Philip, U. S. N.; Captain and Mrs. Chadwick of the New York, Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand W. Peck, Charles Dewey, the Admiral's brother, and Mrs. Dewey, Michael Cudary, Bourke Cockran, H. J. King, Arthur Hill and Mrs. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Burbright, W. H. Kendall, Cecil Baring, R. M. Little, Q. C.; Barclay Warburton and E. P. Benjamin.

The Earl of Minto, Governor of Canada, and Lady Minto, who are guests of Sir Roderick Cameron, drove down to the quarantine wharves at 8 o'clock, where they boarded the steamer Governor Flower, which proceeded down the bay to intercept Commodore Morgan's steam yacht Corsair. Lord Minto's party will be the guests of Commodore Morgan during today's yacht race.

A MODERATE BREEZE BLOWING.

The first report from the Highlands of Navesink at 7:35 a. m. said the wind was about west, blowing eight knots and showing signs of increasing. The haze which obscured the Long Island shore showed signs of disappearing, the sun coming out.

The weather was pleasant at the Hook and a light sea was running. Before 8:30 a. m., the crew on the Columbia had her jib and stay sails up in stops and the cover was taken off the mainsail.

The Shamrock's people had by that time uncovered her mainsail and hoisted her jib in stops. Then the crews went to breakfast and waited for further orders.

At 8 o'clock, while the Scotland lightship, four miles away, could be seen from the shore, the Sandy Hook lightship, eight miles away, was hidden from view.

The early morning conditions at the Highlands indicated that the yachts would be sent away either from Sandy Hook or the Scotland lightship before the wind, as was the case on Tuesday, but in this case, with the wind west southwest, the course would naturally take them well up the Long Island shore instead of the New Jersey shore.

YACHTS PUT TO SEA.

At 8:45 A. M. the Shamrock's tug Lawrence took a line from the big racer. The mooring was cast off and the Shamrock started for the lightship. Just before she left her moorings the crew began hoisting the big mainsail. Five minutes after the Shamrock started, the Columbia was also taken in tow by a tug and followed by her rival out by the Hook.

The Shamrock's sail was well up by the time she had got past the point, and the crew immediately began sending the the big club topsail aloft. This sail was also set on quick time.

The Columbia's mainsail took longer to set and it was not until she was two miles off the Hook that the crew began sending up her club topsail.

At 9:15 the wind was still light from the west southwest, although frequent puffs could be felt scurrying out to sea. The old cup defender Vigilant ran out ahead with her working top sail set to enable the skippers on both newer boats to judge as to the direction and velocity of the wind.

The two big racers were accompanied out to the lightship by newspaper tugs and the Associated Press yacht Wanda.

UNFAVORABLE WIND.

The Erin, with a large party on board left her anchorage inside the Hook, and started after the two yachts. The wind at 9:50 was much to windward off the Jersey shore with a velocity of about seven knots, but showed little indication of increasing materially. It still held to the west southwest, a most unfavorable quarter for starting the yachts either to the windward or leeward of Sandy Hook lightship, and at 10 o'clock it seemed probable that the starting line would have to be changed.

After the Shamrock had cast off her tow line, she started on a long run to the southeast, going off in that direction from the lightship over a mile, evidently for the purpose of stretching her sails.

BIG EXCURSION FLEET.

The Columbia, on the other hand, hung around near the lightship, and at 10 o'clock took down her club topsail. The big sail was on the deck about five minutes when it was again hoisted, the crews sending it up on the starboard side of the mainsail.

By 10:15 the first of the excursion fleet had reached the lightship and the rest of these vessels were strung out behind, making a procession ten miles in length and including every conceivable kind of steam craft. In the lead were a number of revenue cutters. The weather half an hour before the start began to cloud up but gave no indication of rain.

It was just minute before 11 o'clock when the boats ranged up almost side by side, the Shamrock being just a few feet in the van and her rival holding a position that enabled her to get the best of the breeze.

"At 10:59:30 the Shamrock's big spinnaker was broken out, all jibs on each having been set a few minutes previously.

The spinnaker on the challenger began to pull the moment it was in place and helped move her down across the line.

READY FOR THE START.

At 11 o'clock the preparatory signal was blown and by this time the two racers were weather of the line. They both came drifting up close to the lightship, Columbia coming down across the line close to the lightship, and coming about, sailed slowly back, leaving the lightship to port. Shamrock also headed toward the line but did not cross. Captain Hogarth went about and ran back to where he started from, breaking out his balloon forestay sail as he did so.

JOCKEYING FOR POSITION.

He was not quick enough, for the Columbia had come down with a good move on, and jibbing on her boom, to starboard, was to weather of the green boat. The last bit of work was rather tame, because the light breeze did not move the racers along at much more than a snail's pace. When the starting signal was given at 11 o'clock both boats were within a short distance of the line. The air was so light at that time, however, they did not have much way on. The Columbia's spinnaker was brought out after the starting signal had been given, and so close together were the two racers that the Columbia's main sail lapped over the Shamrock's spinnaker and prevented it from drawing well. The boats were only a few seconds apart when they crossed the line.

THE BOATS ARE OFF.

The smoke of the gun fire that had given the signal hung in the air, and the two boats broke through, the Shamrock with the spurt which had given her first place over the line, missing all but a few rings of it, the Columbia, which was just off the marksboat, catching nearly all of it. So they were off.

It was difficult to distinctly see the racers. The course set took the boats practically to sea.

The racers were carrying their sails alike. Forward the big balloomers filled and sagged with the fickle breeze, while the spinnakers seemed to draw but little.

The first five minutes were not cheering for the Columbia.

EXCITING SPURTS.

The half-length of the Shamrock at the start was lengthened out until clear water showed. The Columbia's sail filled and then she went on and caught her opponent. Inch by inch she crept up until she had a lead of one length and a half. Captain Hogarth had practically all his men aft, but a few green caps could be seen forward, and it almost seemed as if the head of the Shamrock lifted. Her spinnaker pole seemed to set forward further and the spurt was on. The Shamrock nipped the stern of the Columbia and was making good headway.

DANGER OF THE Y. M. I.

Huge Sticks of Dynamite Secretly Placed in a Lodgeroom.

The police are quietly at work endeavoring to divine the motive of the placing of six sticks of dynamite in one of the drawers of a desk used in their quarters by the Carpenter's Union, and at the same time to ascertain by whom the deadly explosive was placed where it was found.

They are silent on the subject when spoken to by member sof the press, and affect to believe that they know nothing whatever about the subject.

The finding of the explosive, however, is an absolute fact and is substantiated by half a dozen reliable young men.

The discovery was made last Monday night and was witnessed by William Duddy, J. J. Kennedy, Thomas Gallagher and A. MacKinnon.

It was made in the hall of the Young Men's Institute on the east side of Broadway, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets.

It happened while the hall was being cleared of furniture, which had just been sold by the Institute.

For several years the hall has been leased by the Y. M. I., which met in it two nights a month.

The Institute sub-let the hall to various other organizations, among them being the Typographical Union, the Carpenter's Union, the Coal Dealers' Association, a Court of Foresters, the Wolf Tone Club, and the C. L. A. Society.

The Institute for sometime has been dissatisfied with the quarters, because they were in a dilapidated condition, and had been looking around to find a more commodious and cozy place of assemblage.

If they remained in possession of the place, later than Monday last, they would be compelled to pay another month's rent, so they concluded to move out on that night. They had previously sold the furniture of the place and the goods were to be called for on the following day. All the sub-leasing societies had been informed of the move and most of them had taken their belongings out the drawers assigned to them in the desks of the place.

To see that nothing of value was left in the drawers a committee of the Institute examined the receptacles on Monday last, and while examining the drawer of the Carpenters' Union the deadly explosive was found.

The six stocks were loosely scattered in the bottom of the drawer, and when they were noticed by one of the members of the committee he exclaimed:

"What hav we here?"

Immediately everyone examined the find and finally one man said, "It's dynamite."

There was a look of surprise on every face.

The dynamite was examined again but nobody evinced a desire to toy with it.

The search through the drawers was completed, A. MacKinnon, president of Y. M. I. No. 6, had just taken some article down stairs and placed it on a wagon preparatory to driving it away, when he met Sergeant Green of the police force, who happened to be passing at the time.

"Come up stairs, Sergeant," said MacKinnon, "there's something up there I want to show you."

The Sergeant accompanied MacKinnon upstairs and was shown the dangerous find and he immediately pronounced it dynamite.

The finders of the dynamite had no desire to assert ownership of it and accordingly surrendered it to the Sergeant, who took it to the city jail.

In conversation with President MacKinnon of the Y. M. I. the facts above related were obtained. Concluding, Mr. MacKinnon said:

"I was present when the dynamite was found. I don't know how it came there. I know that none of our members had anything to do with putting it there, and I am satisfied the Carpenter's Union did not put it there, and why it was put there is a mystery to me. I directed the attention of Sergeant Green to it. He pronounced it dynamite and took it away. He met me a night or so later and remarked that the sauff 'was dynamite all right.' What Sergeant Green has done with it I don't know."

CONFLICT NOW NEAR AT HAND

Thirty Thousand Boers on the Border Waiting Word for War.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The Daily Telegraph publishes in its second edition this morning the following dispatch from Newcastle, Natal, yesterday:

"The Boers' advance began today with a general movement of artillery. The Boers are occupying Laing's Nek nightly and now hold the mountains to the south of Volksrust. There are no British troops nearer than Ladysmith, and preparations are being made to abandon Natal from the frontier to Glencoe.

"The inhabitants of Newcastle met today and decided not to attempt to defend the town in the event of a Boer advance in force. General Symond is preparing to evacuate within twenty-four hours. The people are crowding trains for Ladysmith."

Although today's news from South Africa is grave, the adherents of peace still derive a glimpse of hope from some dispatches that the stage of negotiations is not yet fully terminated.

CONTRADICTORY DISPATCHES.

The news is contradictory. Side by side with the announcement that the Boers have occupied Laing's Nek is printed a dispatch from Pretoria stating that the Transvaal government has issued strict injunctions to the commandants that British territory must not be invaded and that Commandant-General Joubert has issued a proclamation threatening to shoot any man who crosses the border.

Scarcely had the advocates of peace exchanged congratulations over the announcement from the Transvaal that J. H. Hofmeier, the Afrikander leader, and W. P. Schreiner, the Cape Premier, had undertaken a joint semi-official peace mission and had actually started for Pretoria, where they ought to have arrived last evening, when later messages from the Transvaal capital declared that the Boer government knew nothing of this mission and that, in any event, nothing could preserve peace but the withdrawal of the British demands.

There is not a jot of evidence going to show that the burghers contemplate receding.

Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon nothing has arrived to confirm the dispatch from Newcastle to the Daily Telegraph announcing that a general advance of the Boer forces began yesterday.

Another Newcastle special, forwarded later than that to the Daily Telegraph, declares that all was quiet on the border last evening and that there was no sign of a Boer advance.

The statement in the Daily Telegraph's special that there were no British troops nearer than those at Ladysmith is obviously an error, as 3,000 British troops are encamped at Dundee.

BOERS ENLIST KAFFIRS.

The alleged Boer advance coincides curiously with simultaneous telegrams from various quarters regarding a Boer ultimatum and the expiration of the time limit in the evening. A distinctly serious and ugly statement comes from Newcastle to the effect that armed Kaffirs accompany the Boer commandos. This would be an absolute breach of the conditions supposed to govern warfare among civilized nations, and if true, presages scenes worse than even the gloomiest forecasts.

From other Newcastle advices it appears that the Premier of Natal has telegraphed the military authorities that they can render Newcastle no assistance, adding that if the Boers intend to attack the town resistance would be futile, and the women and children should be sent away and the town surrendered.

An unconfirmed report says that martial law has been proclaimed in the Transvaal.

Advices from Bloemfontein say that the town, the capital of the Orange Free State, presents a most animated appearance. Armed burghers go about everywhere, although the government still professes hopes of peace.

A special dispatch from Johannesburg says:

"As a natural result of the panic there is considerable lawlessness. The regular distribution of letters has ceased.

"The government has commandeered all dynamite and cyanide supplies, which had been removed and placed under strict guard at various depots. A strong guard has been stationed at the reservoir to prevent tampering with the water."

LOYAL IRISHMEN.

An enthusiastic meeting of Irishmen was held last evening in Kimberly, under the presidency of a former Mayor of the town, at which resolutions were unanimously adopted expressing disapproval of the conduct of Irishmen who sympathized with the Boers and of the course of the Irish Parliamentary party in extending sympathy and support to the Transvaal in the present crisis.

DANGEROUS DELAY.

Intelligence from Cape Town includes an official denial of the rumor that the British have crossed the Transvaal frontier near Kimberly. There is a very definite feeling throughout the Cape that the delay in forwarding reinforcements is very dangerous. The utmost enthusiasm prevails and men are anxious to place their services at the disposal of the government.

Some of the refugees from Johannesburg are resorting to acts of violence, smashing windows. It is expected that although the Dutch in Cape Colony are likely to remain quiet in ordinary circumstances, they will join their brethren of the Orange Free State in case the Basutos commence hostilities.

It is reported that another shipment of Rand bullion to the value of £1,000,000 is in danger of confiscation by the political authorities.

PETITION TO VICTORIA.

A petition to Queen Victoria, signed by fifty-eight members of the Cape House of Assembly, has been forwarded through the British High Commissioner, Sir Alfred Milner, pointing out that the petitioners, who are related by blood and through marriages, are materially interested in the maintenance of peace, urging the abandonment of warlike measures, "as the Transvaal is now fully awakened to the wisdom of liberal concessions," and praying her majesty to appoint a commission forthwith to confer with the Boers as the petitioners are convinced that if the present franchise act is inadequate the Transvaal government is prepared to make further concessions to Outlanders. The petitioners, in closing, declare their loyal devotion to the throne and person of the Queen. Today the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Chamberlain, sent the following reply:

CHAMBERLAIN'S REPLY.

"The imperial government is not unmindful of the sympathy and interest of British subjects of Dutch descent in South Africa. One of the main objects of the imperial policies is to secure for the non-Dutch inhabitants of the Transvaal rights and privileges similar to those enjoyed by the Dutch in Cape Colony. The imperial government has shown the Transvaal every consideration consistent with this object and deeply regrets that the efforts for a peaceful settlement have hitherto been unsuccessful.

"The imperial authorities are unable to adopt the suggestion of the petitioners, for the reason stated in the note to the Transvaal September 12th. In view of the refusal of the Transvaal to entertain that moderate and conciliatory offer, the imperial authorities have been compelled to formulate their own proposals regarding a final settlement, which will shortly be communicated to the Transvaal."

The Times, in its second edition today, published the following dispatch from Pietermaritzburg, dated October 4th:

WILD REPORTS DENIED.

"The wild statements emanating from Ladysmith and Newcastle that the Boers have crossed the frontier are without foundation. The British military authorities in Natal do not expect the Boers to cross the border at present unless their leaders lose control of the men."

The London edition of the Standard and Digger's News, a Boer organ, publishes the following dispatch from Johannesburg, dated yesterday:

"It is expected that 30,000 burghers from the Transvaal and the Orange Free State will be on their respective borders this Wednesday evening. Should the hostilities be protracted there is much fear that the Zulus, Matabeles, and Basutos will rise against the whites, and massacres and disasters will follow. The Zulu chiefs have been summoning their tribesmen from the Rand for weeks past."

MORE BOER OUTRAGES.

Stories of outrages committed by the Boers upon refugees from the Transvaal continue to pour in. A bad incident occurred at Kroonstadt, where a deputation from a train load of 2,000 refugees attempted to buy provisions, but were driven out by Boers armed with blacksnakes.

Lieut. Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill, son of the late Lord Randolph Churchill, will accompany General Sir Redvers Buller, who is in supreme command of the British forces in South Africa, going as correspondent of the Times.

NO IMMEDIATE DANGER.

NEWCASTLE, Natal, Oct. 5.—5:10 a.m.—A dispatch has been received here from the government stating that there is no immediate cause for alarm. This has had the effect of arresting the panic.

FIRE LOSSES FOR SEPTEMBER

Insurance Companies Said to Be Losing Money.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The fire loss of the United States and Canada for the month of September, as compiled from the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin records, amounts to $12,778,600. The following table will show the losses for the first nine months of 1899 in comparison with the same period in 1898:

Month.	1898.	1899.
January	$ 9,427,600	$10,718,000
February..	12,620,300	18,466,600
March	7,427,600	11,493,040
April	8,211,000	9,213,000
May	11,260,000	9,918,000
June	9,296,200	6,714,850
July	8,889,750	11,426,400
August	7,703,500	9,703,700
September	14,203,650	12,778,800
Totals..	$89,104,000	$99,603,650

It will be seen that the 1899 losses so far exceed those of the same months of 1898 by over $10,000,000. The paper comments:

"These statistics confirm the opinions reiterated in these columns earlier in the year that the fire insurance business in the United States is on an unhealthy and unprofitable basis and the year 1899 will result in a net loss on actual underwriting for a large majority of the fire companies doing a general business throughout the field. Rates have rapidly fallen and fires have become heavier and more frequent, and the expense ratio has been seriously advanced by the recent action of the 'Western Union,' which fixes fire insurance commissions and rates in the West. That body advanced agents' commissions very heavily. We have a decrease of income, increase on loss payments, and greater cost of doing business, so the three important factors in fire insurance are adverse to the hope of profit."

Honolulu Man Loses a Valise Containing $50,000.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

HONOLULU, Sept. 27. (via Victoria, B. C., Oct. 4.)—R. B. Banning, who left here August 30th on the steamship Australia, lost a valise containing nearly $50,000 in bank notes, bonds and sugar stocks in the Occidental Hotel, just after the arrived in San Francisco. The valise was shipped by mistake on the Nippon Maru as a part of the personal effects of Purser John P. Ivers. The latter discovered the mistake before arriving here and left valise on the Pacific Mail wharf. He evidently had no idea of the value of the contents of the valise, as he made no report to the steamship company's agents and the valise containing a small fortune lay comparatively unprotected among other uncalled for packages, until advices received yesterday by the Belgian King resulted in a search being made. The lost valise was found intact.

The steamers Maura and Kinau, of the Wilder Steamship Company have a salvage claim of about $4,000 against the bark Colusa, which they hauled off the reef near Kahului on the 24th. A part of this will probably go to Captains Macdonald and Clark of the Maura and Kinau and their crews. The Colusa carried a cargo worth about $60,000, and is worth about $20,000. She went aground at a dangerous point about 500 yards from where the old Leahi went to pieces. The Maura worked to save her over thirteen hours.

The transport Belgian King arrived from San Francisco on the morning of the 26th. She resumed her voyage to Manila the next day. The transport Aztec arrived from the same port yesterday. She has cavalry horses on board for Manila.

REPORT MADE BY AGENT KENNEDY.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the president, Mrs. E. E. Greenman, occupied the chair.

The report of the agent, G. G. Kennedy, showed 34 cases examined, 22 warnings given, 16 lame horses ordered out to rest, 8 horses otherwise not fit for labor ordered out, 14 arrests made, 10 convictions, 2 dismissals, 2 cases of judgment suspended and one case pending.

The treasurer, Dr. W. O. Buckland, being unavoidably absent, no report was made.

There was a large audience present when President Greenman, in a few graceful and well-chosen words introduced Mr. Charles A. Keeler, the well-known poet, author and scientist of Berkeley, who delightfully entertained the audience for forty minutes on "California Birds—Their Destruction and Protection."

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—Captain Bowen of the ship Arctic Stream, now at Port Los Angeles from Hamburg, reports that on August 11th while off Staten Island, near the Straits of Magellan, he saw the British ship Gifford take men from an open boat.

By signalling he learned from the Gifford that she had rescued five members of the crew of the British steamer Tokoa, which had been wrecked on Staten Island.

The men were exhausted and suffering from frost bites.

The Tokoa had been on a passage from New Zealand to London with a number of passengers and a large consignment of refrigerated beef. The rescued men knew nothing of the fate of the passengers or others on the steamer.

TORTURED BY ATTENDANTS.

Patient at Highlands Tells of Brutal Treatment.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—Michael Gross, lately a patient at the Highlands Insane Asylum, has made sensational charges against that institution in answer to a suit filed against him by the asylum for $421 for his support.

Gross claimed that the treatment he received at the hopsital was not worth fifteen dollars per month. He avers that he was compelled to work night and day during his stay at the asylum and thinks that his services were worth at least $60 per month. He also alleges brutality on the part of the attendants, claiming to have been locked in a room during the hot weather with an allowance of only one drink of water—a day and but little food.

While the attendants were eating, Gross avers, they would smear his face with milk and liquid food and endeavor to break his teeth by thrusting a spoon down his throat, choking him to prevent an outcry.

GUNBOAT'S HULL NOW AT CAVITE.

Orani Bombarded and Rebels Evacuate the Town.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire

MANILA, Oct. 5—5:10 p. m.—The expedition sent to the Orani river under command of Captain Cornwell, to recover the sunken gunboat Urdaneta, returned to Cavite yesterday with the hull of the boat, after bombarding Orani and landing a force. Captain Cornwell brought one prisoner. Lieutenant of the gunboat Laguna de Bay headed the expedition. There were no casualties.

On Monday morning the expedition entered the river and anchored above Orani, near the Urdaneta, the inhabitants of the town simultaneously evacuating it and carrying their belongings with them. The gunboats bombarded Orani, the beaches and the surrounding country for half an hour, receiving a Mauser volley in return.

The Urdaneta was towed off the bar about 10 o'clock that evening, the operations of the Americans being unmolested.

The following morning the bombardment was reopened to cover a landing of 180 bluejackets and marines, about half a mile above the town.

On entering Orani the Americans experienced a slight rifle fire from the Filipinos in the trenches. They found the town untenanted and that the shells had ignited a few huts.

ABUSED AND SHOT HIS WIFE.

Mrs. Kelley Is Granted a Divorce and Alimony.

Judge Greene this morning granted Florence Kelley a divorce from James Kelley on the grounds of wilful neglect extreme cruelty and habitual intemperance.

The history of the married life of the Kelleys is one that has been marked with tragic elements. They were married in San Francisco in May, 1895. Kelley was employed as a clerk by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company.

It was not long after their marriage that Mrs. Kelley began to find out that her husband was fond of high living and spending more money than his salary would afford. The husband would leave his young wife alone while he went out spending the night with congenial companions.

Finally after leaving her husband Mrs. Kelley came to this city to reside. Kelley followed her here and threatened to shoot her if she did not return. She refused and he shot her. He is now confined in jail in San Francisco awaiting his trial for the deed. The bullet is still in his wife's body and she is very weak from the effects of the wound.

A few months ago Kelley created a scene in the overland train by shooting at one of his wife's relatives. He was arrested but his relatives refused to prosecute him.

By the decree granted this morning Mrs. Kelley is awarded $50 monthly allmony and the custody of a son three years of age.

NEW GRAND JURY NAMED.

J. L. Bromley Named Foreman and W. Meese Secretary.

A new Grand Jury was drawn and impanelled this morning in Judge Hall's court. This is the second Grand Jury drawn this year. It will serve during what is called the long term.

The following are the names of the nineteen men selected to serve as Grand Jurors:

T. J. Clooney, F. T. Dusterbury, Walter Meese, J. C. Lenderman, James H. Corey, F. W. Greely, Martin Donahue, J. S. Burpee, George D. Gray, Alexander Innes, Ferdinand Koenig, A. D. Pryal, Mark Webber, Colby Collins, Albert Rhoda, J. A. Beckwith, J. L. Hollis, J. Piper Smith, and J. L. Bromley.

William Day, Ira M. Wentworth, J. R. Soupham and Daniel Robertson were excused by the court for good cause.

J. L. Bromley was appointed foreman of the Grand Jury by the court. The usual instructions were then read to the jurors. In his instructions Judge Hall stated that it was the duty of the jurors to inquire into all public offenses and to bring charges when necessary. They were to examine the work and records of all public officials and report upon them. They were not to praise the work of any official, for it was the duty of all to perform their work well. Where the work was defective or contrary to law it was to be condemned and prosecution brought if necessary.

The jurors then retired and effected an organization. Walker Meese was chosen secretary. The next meeting will be held next Monday at 10 o'clock.

Contractor Grant has finally got the town hall in motion after several days' hard work. The building was so low that shafts had to be dug to allow of the use of the jackscrews. It is estimated that it will take twenty-one days to move the building to the new site.

The first installment of town taxes will be due next Monday.

EDITORS DO NOT AGREE.

The Pleasanton Pencil Drivers Call Each Other Names.

PLEASANTON, Oct. 5.—The editor of the mis-spelled and ungramatical sheet down the street, otherwise known as our "esteemed contemporary," found occasion in his last issue to "throw a little mud" on this paper in an article headed "A Disgrace," and goes on to take exception to a little piece of news which he didn't get under the caption. "Out With a Night Watchman." We have no desire to engage in mud-slinging, so common to country editors, or into a "controversy" with our brother editor, therefore we must call a "hault" right here.

As we stated in the first issue on assuming charge of the Times, that it would be our aim to publish a paper that would be readable and clean and endeavor to do away with all fractional feeling. We believe we have been true to our promse so far, and not one party in town can truthfully say that some one else has been favored more than he. We are not responsible for things as we find them; but publish them as a matter of news, so that one half of the world may know what is going on in the other half.

Never before have we found our articles censured, and we will not overlook real news simply because it does not suit one clique, or "jump" some one to make the other feel good. News is news and if any one thinks a newspaper man is going to let news go loose, people are badly mistaken.

In regard to our article which caused our contemporary to have such a fit; we think it of some interest to a community that is paying a night-watchman for his services, to know how he is earning that money. We furthermore think it of more interest to report the news in the hop-fields, where some eighteen to twenty thousand dollars are paid out for picking alone, a great deal of which money is put in circulation here among our business houses, than it is to report that "John Jones went to the city the fore-part of the week"—where he spent all the money he had to no benefit to our merchants.—or that "Miss Sally Blue was a passenger seen to alight from the train the hindpart of the week"—if a week has a "forepart" it certainly must have the other part.

The decent, law-abiding people of the community know very well that the presence of a turbulent, unruly crowd—we do not say all of them—that will always gather at places like the hop-fields during the picking season, needs a little watching, and people do, or should understand that this is why the night-watchman was employed, and if there was anything so "disgraceful" in reporting how this night-watchman performed his duties, we fail to see it. Certainly anyone with common sense can see what the article was intended to convey, but because the "Bulletin" man could not see the "point" his eyes must have been blinded.

In conclusion we will say "keep right along, Brother White with your pretty little editorials, they may do you good and they are certainly advertisements for the Times.—Pleasanton Times.

BEET FACTORY.

Our esteemed contemporary last week ran a big "scare head" article announcing that a beet-sugar factory was to be established near Pleasanton and that Mr. George Davis was to be at the head of the concern. We would like to ask the "Bulletin" to explain where this sugar factory would have to be located in order to get the proper drainage for the refuse that must necessarily be dumped from the mill. We have carefully examined into this matter and we think that Pleasanton will never see a mill built near the town. The "Bulletin" also stated that Mr. Davis is to resign his position as superintendent of the Rancho del Valle. That is also incorrect, as Mr. Davis states he never knew a thing about it.—Pleasanton Times.

BEET LANDS.

From September 4th, to September 20th, 194 cars of beets have been shipped from this station amounting to 10,404,150 pounds.

We have been informed by reliable authority that five thousand acres of land has been contracted for by the Alameda Sugar Company for next year for the purpose of raising sugar beets. At present only about 2,500 acres are planted to beets, and ten cars a day are being shipped. The increased acreage will bring the shipments up to an enormous figure and it is probable that fifty cars a day will leave this station for the Alvarado factory next year.—Pleasanton Times.

SAN LEANDRO.

SAN LEANDRO, Oct. 5.—The town trustees at their meeting Tuesday night ordered the removal of all poplar and gum trees from streets which are sewered. The matter was introduced by a report from City Attorney Frank to the effect that the board possesses authority to have all trees removed from the streets.

Trustee Eber stated that it is impossible to have a serviceable sewer system unless the planting of shade trees is restricted.

It was decided to correspond with the agricultural department of the University regarding the best varieties of trees to plant; meanwhile to remove the gums and poplars.

Marshal Geisenhofer reported that he had collected $182 during September.

Street Superintendent Garcia reported that the Estudillo avenue sewer has been completed.

The Street Superintendent was instructed to inspect the sewer system monthly.

The clerk was instructed to advertise for bids on 1,000 cubic yards of rock. The material will be used for the macadamizing of Estudillo avenue.

LIVERMORE.

LIVERMORE, Oct. 5.—C. A. Wetmore, who is sojourning in the valley during the vintage, is entitled to the credit for discovering a new grape which promises to be valuable to wine growers. The grape has been developed by George West of Stockton, and the Mail of that city has the following to say concerning it:

The resistant quality of the vine, its prolific vintage and the deep color of its produce make it probable that the new grape will become very popular in California. Growers predict new planting on an extensive scale as a result of better prices in the wine market, and this will open a wide field for the new grape.

The vine, which originated in one of the Atlantic States and is believed to be an entirely new variety, was called to the attention of George West by C. A. Wetmore, the well known wine expert. Mr. West sent for cuttings and planted them on his place north of town. During the season which has just closed the vines yielded enough to make several gallons of wine, and it is a sample of this first press which is to be placed on exhibition at the pavilion. It is, of course, too young for use. It will attract the attention of people interested in such matters, however, because of its deep coloring and desirability as a blender.

A novelty in connection with the new grape is that dyes and ink can be manufactured as by-products from the refuse. So strong is the coloring matter that with the addition of an alkaline substance a very good black ink can be produced, without the addition of iron. Red, purple and green dyes can also be produced, the coloring depending upon the addition of various chemicals and dyers.

Mr. West named the new grape "The Salvator," perhaps in allusion to the fact that it may be destined to save the vineyards of California from the ravages of phylloxera, by reason of its resistant qualities.—Livermore Herald.

SUCCESS OF "THE THREE MUSKETEERS."

"The Three Muskateers" at the Dewey is proving one of the greatest successes in the history of the house under Lander Stevens' management, and he has scored some notable ones. The inherent charm of the play, with its romantic atmosphere and picturesque setting, its appeal to the universal lofe of a fighter when he is a gallant and fearless one, gives it a vitality that is proof against the mutations of time and the fickleness of public taste. Lander Stevens is seen at his best in the role of D' Artagnan, and the performance as a whole is a most artistic one.

What is wanted of soap for the skin is to wash it clean and not hurt it. Pure soap does that. This is why we want pure soap; and when we say pure, we mean without alkali.

Pears' is pure; no free alkali. There are a thousand virtues of soap; this one is enough. You can trust a soap that has no biting alkali in it.

Bled Quarts at a Time

"I am a knife maker and worked for a number of years in the New York Knife Co.'s factory at Walden, N. Y. First thing I knew I commenced to bleed from the mouth. Sometimes as much as a quart of blood would come up from my lungs at a time. Every time I coughed the blood spurted out. It was in the fall I got so bad, and the church people told me I had better make my peace with the Lord and prepare to die, for I would not live till spring. My home doctor couldn't do me any good, but advised me to get to New York City for examination. They finally took me to a medical college, and a whole lot of physicians made what they called a diagnosis. There were several students looking on. One professor had a little ivory hammer, and with this he pounded my chest and held his ear close to listen. After a while the professor looked at me solemnly and declared: 'One of your lungs is about gone and the other is affected. There may be a slim chance for life if you quit working in that knife factory.' I went back home, but didn't improve. One day I saw an advertisement of free samples of Acker's English Remedy for Consumption, being given away by our home druggists, Walker & Eaton. I got one of these bottles, and it relieved me. Then I bought more of the regular size, and my improvement was continuous, although slow. My doctors were astonished and so was I. After dark I hated to spit, because I was afraid it might be blood, and I wanted to know for sure. I have no fear now, for at last I am a solid man again. Although one lung is gone, the other is as sound as a dollar, and answers as well as two lungs, so far as I can see. I want everyone to know the facts and that is why I tell them here." (Signed) A. H. SIMPSON.

THURSDAY.....OCTOBER 5, 1899.

It is announced that a "cyclone" evangelist is in town. It is to be hoped that he is not so-called because he is an unusually windy talker.

Whoever was interested in the circulation of the novel that has just been tabooed by the Library Trustees must have induced them to take that action publicly—there is no surer way of creating a demand for it.

West Oaklanders are going to stay with their wharf proposition until they get it. The ease with which they disposed of the marsh when they got right down to business has instilled in them a confidence that is sure to make their new effort a success.

Marconi, the wireless telegraphy man, was given an opportunity Tuesday in connection with the yacht race, and he did all he said he would. A man who is in possession of such an invention as his does not need to pull wires in order to obtain recognition.

Joy reigns supreme in the city jail. The decision of the Board of Police Commissioners not to work the prisoners on the streets is the best piece of news they have heard for a long time. With two meals a day, warm quarters and nothing to do, why shouldn't they be happy?

J. A. Fillmore of the Southern Pacific states that the shipment of oranges, lemons and olives out of California will reach 18,000 carloads this season. As the wheat exports are also far above the average, twenty dollar gold pieces will be so plentiful on California farms this year that they will be using them for paper weights.

Otis is willing to let Aguinaldo quit fighting, but it has got to be done the way Uncle Sam says or not at all—up with the white flag and down with all arms and ammunition. If the insurgent leader thinks that he is going to be treated with as the representative of a form of government he is sadly mistaken—his official status is about equivalent to that of a highwayman.

OUR HARBOR POSSIBILITIES.

The new management of what is known as the "opposition ferry" has formally notified the civic authorities of its intention to ply to our city wharf and has announced its desire to gladly meet whatever charges for wharfage and dockage may be imposed. In return, Mayor Snow has expressed his gratification at welcoming the new-comer to Oakland, and very happily remarks that he will be pleased to do all in his power to increase the business of the water front, and that he will encourage any and all transportation companies which may see fit to use the city's accommodations.

There is no element of our business life that affords more opportunities for development or gives greater promise for the future than that of our water front, and Mayor Snow is right when he declares that it must be nurtured in every way possible. The vast improvements that have been made in the estuary, and the fact that a harbor is at our very doors where deep sea ships may receive and discharge cargoes, should satisfy everyone that that is where our best opportunities lie, for with the building up of a trade with the Orient and the diverting to our shores of the commerce that now flows towards England, a vast merchant marine will center in the Bay of San Francisco and much of the traffic could beyond doubt be attracted here. Instead of handling cargoes in the metropolis it would be far more advantageous to transact such business in Oakland—the land terminus of the continent—and a vast chain of warehouses and shipping stations should in time spring up along our entire water front.

This is no dream nor impossibility, for investigation shows that we are fast becoming thoroughly equipped for such operations and will soon be able to vie with San Francisco in almost everything she can offer on those lines. It rests entirely with ourselves, therefore, as to whether or not these hopes will be realized, and that is why every citizen should lend his aid, either directly or indirectly, whenever any proposition is advanced in the interests of Oakland's harbor and the water front.

REFORM VERSUS REFORM.

Unusual political conditions are presented in the approaching municipal contest across the bay, for as a result of the workings of the primary law, two reform elements are pitted against each other upon precisely the same basis. Heretofore the San Francisco elections have consisted of a set-to between different varieties of bossism or of an element of alleged reformers on the one side and what is known as the "machine" on the other, the result being that the metropolis may be said to be in an unknown condition as to its exact party feelings.

On account of the easy victories of Mayor Phelan at the two last municipal elections, there is a disposition to consider that the city is in the hands of the Democrats, and that the Republican candidates will have no chance at all when the conflict wages next month. This is a fallacious argument of the worst kind. On the two occasions when Phelan has been before the people, he has been enabled to gather into the Democratic fold thousands of Republican votes, on the plea that he represented the interests of the people as against bossism and party machinery. Such an argument cannot be advanced now, for the Republicans are making their fight on principles every bit as high as those of their opponents. Their platform is framed to meet the requirements of every popular issue and their opposition to everything in their own party that may appear to be sullied by improper influences is shown by the determined manner in which they have ejected from their councils, and refused recognition to, those associated with or allied to the old "push" elements.

And now as to the question of whether or not San Francisco is a Democratic city. As a rule, large centers of population are inclined to lean towards that party for the reason that it caters to the poorer elements of society. That the big city across the bay, though, cannot be bamboozled by the specious arguments of the Democrats has been shown time and again at the polls, and an analysis of election returns cannot but convey the opinion that it is at heart Republican. At the Gubernatorial election of 1891 it is true that Budd, the Democratic candidate, carried it as against Estee, the Republican, by nearly 12,000 votes, but the test was in no way a true one, for personal and religious issues were injected into the campaign at the twelfth hour and caused a complete upheaval.

At the Presidential election in 1896 it can, with justice, be said that whatever personal sentiment existed was in favor of Bryan, for he had visited the city before the campaign, had made many friends, and had created a very favorable impression. Furthermore, the Pacific Coast had practically been pledged to free silver by the action of both the Democratic and Republican State conventions. So there were many reasons as to why Republicans should be found voting for the Democratic candidate. Yet McKinley carried the city by 500 votes and the Democrats have never been able to satisfactorily explain how it happened.

Again at the Gubernatorial election last year, James G. Maguire, the Democratic candidate, is a resident of San Francisco, and had three times been sent to Congress from the metropolis by overwhelming majorities. The fight made against him on account of his single tax proclivities necessarily fell flat in San Francisco, where those views were popular, but when the votes were counted it was found that he had only polled 24,632 as against 28,218 for Henry T. Gage, the Republican standard-bearer.

Such evidence is convincing that the metropolis can by no means be classified in the Democratic ranks—in fact, it shows that if it is to be placed in any list at all, it belongs to the Republican side. Our Republican neighbors across the bay should therefore pluck up their courage, for as they are able to meet the Democratic reformers with their own weapons, there is no reason why one straight party vote should be lost. With the moral elements of the situation equally balanced and the voting strength apparently leaning toward the Republicans, it can with justice be said that the prospects of the grand old party are more for victory than defeat.

The newspapers are playing in rare good fortune nowadays, for scarcely does one sensation lull ere another crowds forward to take its place. The Philippine maneuvers closed just in time to give Dreyfus the center of the stage, and he in turn occupied it until Dewey came home. Just as the interest in the doings of the Admiral begins to wane, up bobbed the yacht race, and the Boers are in the wings awaiting their turn. There is no reason why all these things should not have happened at once, and the fact that they have all been so conveniently strung out is another good evidence of newspaper luck.

The text of the Venezuelan decision means a sermon for John Bull that is thoroughly acceptable to him. Although he did not succeed in hogging everything in sight, it is safe to say that he did as well, if not better than he expected.

Don't dodge the canvassers for the Library site fund when they call around. If there is going to be any hitch in simply raising that $30,000 we had better quit talking so big about spending two million dollars for improvements.

A tramp who was arrested in Los Angeles the other day for sleeping in a box car proved to have $1,020 in his pockets when he was searched at the police station. He should not be blamed for not working. He doesn't have to.

JOHN A. SANDS MAKES A FORTUNE.

Comes Home From Klondike Loaded Down With Gold Dust.

The following dispatch from Seattle tells the story of an Oaklander's good fortune:

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 4.—J. A. and H. G. Sands of Oakland arrived today on the steamer City of Seattle from Dawson. They have been operating, and very successfully, for a San Francisco syndicate, in which they are also financially interested, in the Klondike and districts on the American side.

"We cleaned up $102,000 on the American side and $76,000 in the Klondike," J. A. Sands said, "shipping the bulk of the dust down the river to San Francisco. Eighteen thousand of the American clean-up was taken from Chicken creek and the remainder from Jack Wade, which is just as rich a stream as El Dorado.

"From now on more will be heard of the American districts about Eagle City and in the Jack Wade section. The trouble is that the prospectors have been rushing at break-neck speed up and down the Yukon, between Dawson and Cape Nome, overlooking rich ground. The intermediate territory is punctured with shallow shaft holes, but they were not sunk deep enough. The prospectors were either too lazy or too easily stampeded.

"We recently purchased a Seventy-Mile claim for $52,000. It is our intention to work the property on the hydraulic plan. It is in that section where the old-time Yukoners have gone to get a grub-stake. Eleven hours sluicing on the claim in question gave us $238 in gold, and such ground is amply rich for hydraulicking."

[John A. Sands is well known in Oakland. He is an attorney-at-law. At one time he was Deputy Superintendent of Schools of this city. Mr. Sands was also prominent in Second Ward politics. He was a candidate for City Justice of the Peace but was defeated in a contest in the courts by Fred D. Wood.]

ALAMEDA

GOLD HUNTERS MAKE FAILURE.

Two Alameda Expeditions Go to Pieces in the North.

Two gold-hunting expeditions in which Alameda people captured a great deal of interest and in which considerable Alameda capital was invested have come to naught.

When the first expedition, that of the El Sueno party, started out the hopes of the owners and financial backers of the affair ran high, and the vessel had not fairly got started on its course before the Dawson City expedition was instituted and the construction of a steam dredger began for the purpose of dredging in the Yukon for the yellow metal.

The first named expedition proved an unprofitable venture, and a number of the members returned home. Others made their way to the new discoveries and are still in the gold region. A few weeks ago word was received here that the El Sueno, the crack yacht of the Encinal Yacht Club, and which cost $5,500, had grounded on a sand bar in the river and was sold by one of the members of the party for less than $100. The boat was afterwards got off the reef without injury and put to use on the river.

The members of the Dawson City expedition seemed to have fared no better than their fellow townsmen on the El Sueno. After a voyage of numerous mishaps the vessel nally reached the Yukon, but owing to numerous difficulties encountered the venture proved a failure. Numerous reasons were assigned for the failure of the expedition. Some attributed it to the way in which the board of directors handled the expedition and others laid the blame on the lack of experience of the men who had accompanied the steamer to the Yuvon. Jos. A. Leonard of this city, who was formerly manager of the expedition, spent a week aboard the steamer in the month of July of this year. He was unable to do anything as there was not sufficient of the crew left to handle the machinery. In a letter to a friend in this city Frank Woodrum, a member of the Dawson City expedition, now at Rampart City, says as follows:

"The Dawson expedition has been shamefully wrecked by the action of the board of directors in San Francisco, which, I think, if it had been properly managed, it would have paid handsome dividends. I do not know what motive the board had for taking the management out of Leonard's hands, so I think, to be charitable, we should attribute it to no motive at all, but to gross ignorance.

The following Alamedans were shareholders in the El Sueno and Dawson City expeditions: E. K. Taylor, Joseph A. Leonard, Michael Kane, Frank and John Woodrum, Victor Mockle, George Leonard, Charles Kane, Paul and Edmond Buckley. A great deal of money was spent in fitting out the expeditions, and thus far nothing but "Irish dividends" have been declared.

Alameda and Snow.

The Encinal tonight will say:

An Oakland paper declared that Mayor Snow's views upon the tidal canal are at variance with the act of Congress." Then so much the worse for Mayor Snow, and not at all the worse for the canal. The spectacle of a burro kicking a mogul engine isn't a circumstance by the side of Mayor Snow bucking against Congress. Mayor Snow of Oakland has very sensibly taken a new tack in the matter of the improvement of Oakland Harbor. After a consultation with Major Huer of the United States Engineers, and being informed by him that it is impossible to direct the existing appropriation from the construction of the tidal canal, he announces his intention of trying to secure an additional appropriation from the coming Congress for the deepening of Oakland Harbor proper. In this attempt Alameda will wish him all possible aid, and will lend all its aid.

IN THE WILDS OF OREGON.

W. G. Palmanteer Tells About the Slaughter of Deer.

W. G. Palmenteer, manager of the Central Bank, with his choice little party of fellow Nimrods, returned yesterday from an extensive and successful camping expedition in the mountains of Oregon. The party was away a month, lacking three days, spending the most of the time in the heart of the Rogue river district, hunting big game. Mr. Palmanteer's chat about his party's experiences and his observations on the game resources of that region and the steps necessary for its preservation, will be found interesting.

"We sailed from here for the North," he said, "on a Coast Bay steamer on September 8th, and left it at Port Orford, Oregon. There we hired packers who packed our camping outfit back into the mountains, a distance of about thirty miles. The party, I should have stated, included Roscoe Havens, Judge Fred V. Wood, and Herman Sagehorn.

"The mountains of Oregon I must pronounce the finest and greenest, the grandest and most rugged on our whole Pacific Coast. I have never seen them looking finer than this year. The grass sounds almost breast high, so tall that you can only see the head of a full grown deer. All that region, for say twenty-five by one hundred miles, is so wild and rugged that it never can be made available for agriculture. It is a natural game preserve and, man permitting, it will remain such, and one of the finest in the world. Game there, if properly taken care of, or rather if simply protected from wholesale destruction, will always be plentiful.

"We made an elegant camp, and had the good fortune of a competent cook to serve the game we got. The principal game was deer, bear, elk and grouse, besides some fine fishing. Our party killed fifteen deer, and one nice, large black bear. We could have gotten elk, but for the severe penalty of $500 per animal, that has been prescribed by the Legislature of Oregon, with the statute making it unlawful to kill elk for the next ten years. As honest sportsmen, we not only obeyed but heartily approved this restrictive legislation. There should be more of it.

"While the deer was reasonably plentiful, they were not anything like as many as I have seen in past years. For instance, we only saw dozens where there were hundreds last year. This was due to the abominable practice of the 'pelters,' as they are called up there, who shoot deer by wholesale only for their hides. Some distance back from our camp we came across three cabins which, we were informed, were occupied all last winter by men who killed deer to the number of some hundreds, skinning them and throwing away their carcasses. The people of the State are waking up to a sense of the enormity of this practice, and enforcing such laws as they can against it. There is no direct law at present, I believe, against the pelters as such, although there ought to be and very likely will be. But within the past few months one fellow was arrested, convicted and fined $300 for killing deer out of season. This is a step that should have been taken years ago.

"This whole region is so wild, and so rich as a grazing field, and so accessible to the processes of civilization, that it only needs a moderate amount of protection from wholesale slaughtering to repair the damage that has been done and to keep it one of the finest game preserves of the world.

"We went into camp on September 15th, and broke camp on the 28th. Owing to our steamer being bar-bound in Coos Bay we arrived home a little behind time, or yesterday instead of last Monday."

PREPARING TO GIVE THE MEDALS.

Since the last publication of the names of volunteers who enlisted from Alameda county, the following list of names has been sent to Frank Barnet, the secretary of the Alameda county delegation. It is the earnest wish of the committee that the names of all volunteers who enlisted in the late Spanish-American war, and who at the time of enlistment were residents of Alameda county, together with the names of the companies of which they were members, should be submitted to Mr. Barnet, care or Supreme Court, San Francisco, as it is necessary for the committee to make preparations for a fitting reception upon the presentation of the medals and certificates, which will take place in the near future. The committee therefore appeals to those who have enlisted, or their relatives, to submit their names to Mr. Barnet as soon as possible:

Nerve Centre's Rebuilt by Grape-Nuts

THE FAMOUS FOOD

A FOOD FACT.

The food Grape-Nuts positively does furnish the necessary elements to rebuild the brain and nerve centers. Analysis will show it; food makers know it is true; and the every-day user of Grape-Nuts can take his oath that while he may not be an expert food maker, or an analytical chemist, he "knows enough to know" when his body is well nourished, and the seat of his reason active, forcible, and in perfect poise.

Grape-Nuts are as truly the main stay of the brain and the nervous system, as a good stomach is the main stay of a healthy body. Let the "little lamp of reason shine forth" when you make selections of food. All first-class grocers sell Grape-Nuts, and the Postum Cereal Co. Ltd. make them at their Battle Creek factories.

MEETINGS.

A number of candidates was initiated at its last meeting. Among its membership is numbered some of the most prominent Oakland young business, professional and public men. At its last meeting $61 was subscribed for social purposes, and arrangements were made for a trolley ride Friday night over Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda line for members and their friends.

Much credit is due the chief sentinel Brother McGown, and his associate officers for the prosperous condition of the council.

Among the city councils great activity is noticeable. Jefferson Council initiated three candidates at its last meeting and received ten applications. Saturday night the council gave a trolley ride over the city. Two cars, decorated with lights and banners and filled with Jefferson sentinels and their friends, left the Mission car house at 8 o'clock p. m., returning at 1:30 a. m. A fine time was spent and twenty-five applications were taken by the members during the evening.

Webster Council gave a high jinks Monday night, which was largely attended. A good smoke, with refreshments and a varied entertainment, was enjoyed by all. The members had their friends present when they desired in the council, and, as a result, twenty-two applications were taken.

Washington Council was called upon at its last meeting to record its first death in the order. Brother W. J. Killip, one of the trustees of the council and a charter member, died suddenly at his residence in Oakland Tuesday, September 26th. The funeral was under the auspices of the council. The beautiful ceremony of the order was rendered by Supreme Sentinel J. L. Geary Jr., assisted by Brothers Supreme Secretary W. W. Brackett, Chief Sentinel George Griffing, Vice-Sentinel W. H. Wood and the Knickerbocker Quartet.

Washington, Jefferson and Franklin councils at their last meeting passed resolutions of respect and ordered them engrossed and a copy sent to the widow of the deceased brother, W. J. Killip.

A very successful apron and tie party was given by Washington and Webster councils recently in Social Hall, Alcazar building. The hall was well filled and an interesting program was rendered, including a soprano solo by the talented Mrs. Kinross, lately of Portland. After the ladies had found their partners dancing was enjoyed until 12 o'clock. The councils secured thirty odd applications during the evening.

At the last meeting of Washington Council six new applications were received, including that of W. A. Deane. Two candidates were initiated. The council hereafter will meet in Golden Shore Hall, A. O. F. building, 102 O'Farrell street Monday night.

About October 15th the councils of San Francisco will give a grand minstrel show. The troupe will be known as the Sentinel Troubadours and will be composed entirely of members of the order. As the councils number among their members several masters of the black-face art, as well as other amateur specialty artists, a fine show should be presented.

On Thursday night Garfield Council will be instituted in South San Francisco with a charter membership of over forty. Brother Bellinger has gotten this large charter membership together within the short period of two weeks. He says the plan of the Sentinels is the easiest proposition in fraternal insurance he has ever done business with.

The brother's next work will be in San Jose, where he will institute a council about the 20th inst.

The "Are-You-a-Sentinel" posters that have been placed in this city and Alameda are attracting much attention. The cut as well as the banners for the trolley rides are the handiwork of the esteemed Supreme Secretary.

Catholic Ladies.

The Catholic Ladies' Aid Society No. 1 will hold its next regular meeting at 569 Sixteenth street Wednesday afternoon, October 11th, at 8 o'clock P. M.

Degree of Honor.

Two new members were initiated by the drill team at the meeting of Ivy Lodge No. 4 Degree of Honor A. O. U. W., Wednesday evening.

Three applications for membership were received.

A very cordial invitation was received from the Extension Committee of the A. O. U. W., for Ivy Lodge to visit Haywards on Tuesday evening, October 10th, on which occasion, a grand reception is to be tendered the visiting Oakland lodges by Haywards lodge A. O. U. W.

Many present expressed their intention of taking advantage of the kind invitation by going to Haywards on that evening.

Captain Littlefield stated her determination of perfecting the drill team in all the new military manoeuvers just issued by the board of military instructors of the United States.

The new attraction committee for next Wednesday evening Brother and Sister L'Heureux and Sister Pascoe promise a very novel program for the occasion.

The chairman of the Dramatic Committee requested the participants in the drama to meet at Doctor Herrick's office, Central Bank building Friday evening.

Knights of the Maccabees.

Oakland Tent, No. 17 at its last review received seventeen application and initiated eight candidates. During the past four weeks this Tent has received ninety-five applications and on next Monday, October 9th, they will initiate one hundred candidates. The large hall in Pythian Castle has been secured for this purpose. Delegations from all the tents in San Francisco and Alameda will be present. It will be the largest class ever initiated at one time in Oakland in any order, and Oakland Tent feels justly proud of the big record it has made during the past month. With the new candidates admitted, this Tent will number 500. Not content with this large membership they have retained the services of Deputy Ermerino until October 15th at which time they hope to reach the 600 mark. From the way applications are rolling in they will surely win.

Young Men's Institute.

An entertainment and social will be given under the auspices of Fraternity Council No. 21 at Washington Hall, East Oakland, on Friday evening, October 13th for the benefit of St. Anthony's church fair.

The Institute journal will appear in an enlarged from this month, containing 16 pages instead of 8 as formerly.

The next district meeting of the local councils will be held in Alameda on October 19th.

American Council No. 8, will give a social dance in Fraternity Hall, West Oakland on Monday evening, October 16th.

United Workmen.

Monday evening next Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., will give an entertainment and dance. Members of the Gdshrdiurrdlum dance. Members and their families and those eligible to membership are invited to attend.

A standard topic in every lodge is, "What Can We Do to Interest and Bring in New Members?" To solve this problem Central Lodge has decided to give socials frequently. The Committee of Arrangements comprises M. Halloran, D. Harkins, G. James, I. R. Morgan, E. Murphy, J. Driscoll and S. Horgan.

OAK LEAF LODGE.

A large attendance was present at the meeting of Oak Leaf Lodge, No. 35, A. O. U. W., Monday evening.

Five new members were elected and several applications for membership were received.

All the new members are young men, their ages averaging from 20 to 25 years.

Past Master Cogan officiated as Master Workman during the initiatory ceremonies, ably assisted by Brothers Harris, Heath, Anderson, Bryne, Oakes, Nicholl, Ingersoll, and Past Master Workman Hall who delivered the lecture incidental to the screen work in a most eloquent manner. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the participants in the entertainment given in the lodge room on the 25th of September. District Deputy Grand Master Workman Jackson stated that on next Tuesday evening delegations from the different Oakland lodges would visit Haywards lodge and that a great time was in store for those who attended.

He also announced that the grand reception and banquet to be given the country lodges on Saturday evening, October 14th, would be held in Odd Fellows' Hall, corner of Eleventh and Franklin streets.

Odd Fellows.

These are indeed busy times among Odd Fellows because only two weeks remain before the holding of the Golden Jubilee Celebration in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of California Lodge No. 1. I. O. O. F.

The celebration takes place during the week of the session of the Grand Encampment and the jubilee parade will be held in honor of that branch of the order.

Most flattering reports are being received by the committee in charge of affairs in San Francisco and every Odd Fellow has reason to feel proud of the splendid showing the order will make on that occasion.

While Santa Clara, San Joaquin, Sacramento and Fresno counties will send large delegations, each hoping that it may outnumber the other, Alameda county proposes to appear serenely and make the others hustle, if they want to carry off any of the prizes offered for the greatest number of members participating.

The Executive Committee on this side of the bay desires to impress upon the members the necessity of making prompt reply to the return postals sent them, in order that a sufficient number of hats and canes may be supplied for those taking part. This is important to the committee and should receive prompt attention from the members.

Webb N. Pearce has been selected as division marshal for the Alameda county division.

As soon as the grand marshal shall have issued instructions, Captain Pearce will issue orders informing the brothers as to the hour and place of assembling, the position of each lodge in the line and such other information as shall be of interest to the order.

Alameda, Berkeley, Haywards and Irvington will furnish one side to Hon. M. M Estee, the grand marshal of the parade.

All lodges in the county will meet in Oakland on the morning of the 19th and have a short parade in this city prior to going to San Francisco.

The Executive Committee has engaged the Fifth Regiment Band of twenty pieces thus assuring the best music to be had in this county. Members of the order are requested to consult the columns of this paper next Thursday evening, in order that they may be informed as to final details.

EVENING STAR.

Evening Star Lodge No. 263, I. O. O. F., meets at 1156½ East Fourteenth street, East Oakland every Friday evening.

Since the removal of the meeting place of Evening Star Lodge to its new and spacious hall, there has been considerable activity conferring the degrees of the order on new members. There have also been several applications for admission to the lodge at the present time. Due notice will be given when each degree will be conferred, so that all brothers of the I. O. O. F. may come and spend an evening with this Lodge.

Evening Star Lodge is progressing nicely at the present time, as are all Lodges of the I. O. O. F. on this side of the bay. Visiting Brothers are always welcome.

Evening Star Lodge extends a cordial invitation to all Brothers not attached to other Lodges in this county to appear, and turn out with it, on the 19th in the parade of the Golden Jubilee.

UNIVERSITY LODGE.

University Lodge will confer the first degree tonight and the committee on Golden Jubilee celebration will report. All members of the Lodge and visiting Brothers are invited to be present. Detached Odd Fellows are invited to participate with this Lodge in the coming Jubilee parade to be held in San Francisco.

HARBOR LODGE.

Past Grand Master A. N. Mills of Washington, a returned delegate to the Sovereign Grand Lodge, formerly a member of Harbor Lodge, No. 253, I. O. O. F., paid that lodge a fraternal visit last evening. He was surprised at meeting so many old members whom he used to meet at Harbor Lodge some seventeen years ago.

Brother Mills' remarks were very interesting, being upon business transacted at the late session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

The second degree was conferred upon two candidates by the Degree Team in a very creditable manner, much to the enjoyment of a large number of visiting brothers.

Brother Mills complimented the team for its fine work, which shows hard study and practice.

Harbor Lodge will turn out three-quarters of her membership in the coming jubilee parade in Oakland and San Francisco on October 19th.

FOUNTAIN LODGE.

At its last meeting, Monday night, Fountain Lodge conferred the first degree on one candidate and the second degree on three candidates.

Next Monday night it will confer the third degree on three candidates. There is a good prospect for half-a-dozen more members in the near future. The officers are young and active and are devoting all their spare time to building up the membership. With the valuable assistance of their drillmaster, G. Price, they are putting up some very neat floor work, and very impressing ritual work. Visiting brothers are always welcome.

Rathbone Sisters.

The entertainment and dance given by Loyal Temple, Rathbone Sisters, No. 47, Thursday evening September 28, was one of the most successful affairs ever given by this Order in Oakland. The Hall was well filled and the sight of young and beautiful ladies in evening dress was one long to be remembered.

The entertainment opened with an overture by the Foster orchestra, followed by a recitation by Miss Lambert, "Coon song specialties" by Mrs. Samuel, song and dance" by Miss Ferris, monologue, "An Afternoon Tea" by Milton Schwartz, who was introduced as the "Leader of the Veil of Berkeley," banjo solo by Prof. Gelder and a cake walk by three couples—all children—led by the little drum major, Miss Katz. All those participating in the walk were most capable.

The judges awarded the first prize to Miss Ferris and Master Hickman.

Dancing was then indulged in until midnight.

Refreshments were served gratis during the evening and enjoyed by all who partook of them.

On Friday evening last one member was initiated.

Tomorrow evening two more ladies will be added to the roll and several applications will be read. On Friday evening of next week, Loyal Temple give a home social to which the members and their friends will be invited.

Athens Camp Social.

An enjoyable entertainment was held on Wednesday evening in the nature of a house warming by Athens Camp, Woodmen of the World at their new hall, Twelfth and Franklin streets.

Consul Commander Courtney acted as master of ceremonies in his inimitable way. The Acme Club orchestra, under the direction of Neighbor Webb, discoursed sweet music at different intervals during the evening.

The program was as follows:

Music .....Acme Club Orchestra
Dialect song .....Dr. C. M. Selfridge
Recitation .....Geo. W. Calvert
Comic song .....T. Sloane
Boxing bout .....Acme Club
O. Hasse, Ed. Warren.
Vocal solo .....F. Fleming
Comic song .....W. P. Courtney
Recitation .....Geo. W. Calvert
Boxing bout .....Acme Club
O. Coffman, T. Sloane.

After refreshments, an hour or so was spent in story telling, etc. The entertainment committee and Neighbor C. T. Briggs, chairman, deserve a vote of thanks. These socials are to be a feature and Athens Camp expects to initiate a large class of new members this month.

Daughters of Powhatan.

Yosemite Council No. 19, D. of Powhatan and Pownee Tribe No. 67, I. O. R. M. of Alameda have completed their arrangements for the drama to be given at Armory Hall, Park street, Alameda, on Tuesday evening, October 10th. Now all that remains is for the public to respond to the call of the Indians and show that they believe the "Aborigines" capable of imitating if not surpassing the civilized nation in their stage performances.

Rebekahs.

Absit Invidia, Rebekah Lodge, will give an entertainment, dance and refreshments next Tuesday evening, and, as the committee, which consists of Sister Reischman, Baker, Jacobsen, Wharton, Carl and Van Court, have made elaborate preparations for a good entertainment, every one is assured of an especially good time. Excellent talent has been secured and the public is cordially invited. This entertainment is given for the benefit of the Golden Jubilee Committee of Alameda County, and, as Oakland is desirous of making a creditable showing in the Odd Fellows' celebration, it is hoped that Enterprise Hall will be filled to overflowing with loyal Odd Fellows, and Rebekahs and their friends.

Absit Invidia Lodge gave its regular monthly home social Tuesday evening, and the chairmen of the committee, Sisters Reischman and Renshaw, deserve special credit for the dainty "High Tea" that was a surprise to most of the members. Tete-a-tete tables were set about the room and delicate china and silverware on snowy cloths decorated with flowers made an inviting picture. Tea, fancy crackers and biscuits were served and fortunes were told with the tea leaves and a most enjoyable and sociable evening was spent.

In a game of dissected pictures Brother Carl won first prize, and Brother Burntrager proved the best traveler during the trip on the Funville, Frolictown and Featherbrain Railway, and was awarded first prize.

Among other visitors present were noticed Sisters Burntrager, Elmore, Price and Metcalf, and Brothers Stout, Reisch man and Goodman.

Daughters of Liberty.

The Daughters of Liberty of Oakland Council No. 3 held their regular weekly meeting Monday evening in Loring Hall and received several applications for membership. They also had an initiation.

Several applications are received every Monday evening. The Council is prospering finely.

The Daughters wish to thank the merchants and the public generally for their contributions so generously given last Tuesday for the reception and banquet given by the members, together with Junior O. U. A. M. No. 5, the returned Junior Arder boys and United States Hospital Corps.

Foresters of America.

Court Oakland No. 46 has moved to Grand Armory Hall, Thirteenth street, between Broadway and Franklin streets.

The growing condition of the Court required larger quarters.

The Court intends to give a series of entertainments during the winter nights which the limited space of the old hall prevented.

There is a movement on foot to have the various courts meet at the same hall. One of the wealthy courts offers to start a subscription with $5,000 to build a hall, to be called Forester's Hall.

As yet no definite action in this direction has been taken, but something may be done when the other courts are heard from.

HENRY BUTTERS TO THE FRONT.

Gives $1,000 for the Free Library Site.

Henry A. Butters of Piedmont who is now in New York City today telegraphed the Free Library Trustees that he will contribute $500 to the library fund and $1,000 if necessary.

A reply has been sent to Mr. Butters requesting a subscription of $1,000.

The Subscription Committee is hard at work trying to raise the $20,000 for the site.

It is proposed to get ten men to subscribe $1,000 each and ten men to subscribe $500 each. The committee will then go in for smaller subscriptions.

Trustee Flint says he is very much encouraged over the outlook and he believes the money will be subscribed for the site.

P. E. Bowles of the First National Bank has taken an active interest in the matter and has promised to help the committee in every possible way.

CYCLONE IN PULPIT OF METHODISTS.

Stirs Up the Sinners and Wants Them Converted.

Says He Will Make Local Preachers' Hair Stand on End. . . .

The Rev. J. H. Webber, the "Cyclone Evangelist," opened the revival services at the First Methodist Church last evening. Dr. Webber is a remarkable preacher.

When the address of the evening began Rev. Mr. Webber said: "I don't propose to tell you anything new, and I shan't do much preaching. These are the preachers here" (turning to seven reverend gentlemen who sat behind him on the pulpit platform). "They have been sowing the seed for many years, and now the time has come when the harvest is ripe, and we want to put in the sickle and reap. The harvest is so great and the laborers are so few that we must have help, and the help we propose to have is that of the Lord Jesus.

"If I preach Webber in these meetings, you get mad. If I preach Jesus, you go home and repent. You won't like Webber. Well, I don't like him altogether myself. You won't get to the door of this church tonight before some sister will say to you" (and here the speaker mimicked the squeaking tones of an old lady), "How do you like Brother Webber?' If she says that to you, tell her 'Shut your mouth. I want you to keep your mouths shut and pray.

"We have come here for a long siege. If we don't get that boy converted this week we'll do it next week. We'll keep at it till we'll do it. I ain't like Brother Dille. And, by the way, one of that kind is all that's wanted around here. God doesn't want people all of the same kind; He never makes two men alike. I don't care whether He makes me the jawbone of an ass or an old ram's horn if only I can call the people to salvation. I tell you, sister, when you go home and your husband asks you, 'How did you like the evangelist?' if you can't say anything good, don't say anything bad. I know some of you will go out mad as a wet hen" (the speaker waddled across the platform imitating the fowl he referred to). "You'll carry home your cantankerous temper, and your husbands could light a match on your heads, you get so hot."

At this point the evangelist advised every man to get a sanctified wife, but he qualified this remark by saying he was "not doing any advertising for you girls." Then he pictured the sanctified wife coming to the meetings and urging the revivalist to go down and "put his arms around John and bring him into the fold." Suiting the action to the words, Mr. Webber left the pulpit platform, walked down the aisle and threw his arms around an astonished brother. Again the speaker disclaimed personal credit for the results of his revival efforts, but immediately followed it with the remark, "If you listen to Webber he'll send you through this world like a brass band. Thats the kind of religion I like. God loves a smiling face."

Occasionally Mr. Webber turned to the seven clergymen sitting behind him and addressed them as "you fellows." "I'll say some things that'll raise your hair," he cried, and the expression on the seven clerical countenances showed that they believed he would keep his word. He turned to the congregation and told them that if they had any devil in them he'd scare it out of them. He said he expected there would be kicking. "I've told Dr. Dille," he added, "to put the kicking straps on some of you."

The speaker gave a forecast of the methods he intends to pursue throughout the meetings by saying: "I want the boys from the saloons. They are going to come here. I'm going to have this house full. If I have to stand on my head, why, I'll stand. There are people coming to this church who have never darkened a church for twenty-five years. And they won't all be high muck-a-mucks. I'm going to have some of the girls out of the low houses. I am going to have some of the old drunks. Before these meetings are over we've got to have 500 or 1,000 persons seeking God. Now, then, brethren, let us spit on our hands, roll up our sleeves and go in. You've tried it in the nice-nicesw way and it didn't answer. But Brother Webber is a rough file. It'll take you two weeks to get used to him. Some of you will say, 'I'm tired of that old fool Webber.' Well, I'm willing to be a fool if it converts that boy of yours."

The evangelist's way of dismissing the meeting was even more original than his way of opening it. There was neither hymn, doxology nor prayer. "Say, I like to shake hands," he cried, breaking off suddenly in the midst of his talk. He came down into the body of the church and called for the people to come up and shake hands with him. A few came forward, but he kept calling for more to come until he had nearly all the people in the church on their feet. The manual exercise was enlivened by shouts of "Bless the Lord! Come up here, the rest of you! I'll not bite you! Glory to God." Then he made the seven other clergymen come down from the platform and join in the hand-shaking. Two or three minutes later the evangelist called out, "You're dismissed, and the meeting was at an end.

Today and tomorrow there will be meetings at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m., and Rev. Mr. Webber announced that this evening he will tell how "everybody can be an earthquake."

"HOTEL TOPSY TURVY" AT THE MACDONOUGH.

The attraction announced for the Macdonough Theater next Saturday evening will be "Hotel Topsy Turvy," the Herald Square Theater attraction, with the original production as seen 102 nights in New York city. The fascinating French conceit also had a remarkable run of two years at the Folies Dramatiques Theater, Paris, and is now delighting playgoers at the Comedy Theater, London. Achieving success like this in the three principal cities of the world is an assurance that "Hotel Topsy Turvy" must be of exceptional merit. The story is by Maurice Ordonneau, Arthur Sturgess and Edgar Smith, while the music is the composition of Victor Roger and Lionel Monckton, authors who have written some of the most pronounced successes in England, France and America. The book is said to be one of the most amusing that has ever been given to musical comedy; in dialogue and in lyrics there is a vein of irresistible humor which leads to climaxes, situations and incidents that keep the risibles keyed up to a high pitch of mirth, besides being treated in an unconventional manner. The music has become very popular in each city since the nights of the first offerings, being of that catchy atmosphere that remains reminiscent with the listener. The scenes are laid in France. Act first is at the White Horse Inn, Bourg-Fleury; act second, interior of Moulinet's house, and act third, the same. Characteristic of the Herald Square productions scenically and in costuming, is a liberal expenditure to have the richest kind, and as these scenes give excellent possibilities, magnificent stage pictures are presented. The costumes have been designed from the original Parisian dresses and are said to be a revelation in stage gowning. To interpret the different characters some of the most noted entertainers have been chosen and collectively makes an organization of superior talent, in addition to being individually suited to the different players. As a circus proprietress Miss Josie DeWitt should easily be imagined in a character of that kind, which gives so much scope for the comedy instincts she is possessed of. Edwin Foy presents a circus clown that has always been inimitable with that line of work. Burrell Barbaretto, Phil H. Ryley, J. C. Marlow, Wm. F. Carroll, George Romain, Gus Mortimer, Octavia Barbe, Bertie Fowler, Pauline Duffield, Louise Rosa and Amelia Glover make an ensemble of principals that could not make even a bad play uninteresting. There is a chorus of forty voices which comprise some of the most attractive ladies of the different Herald Square Theater attractions, which should prove a feature in itself.

PRESIDENT WHEELER MAKES STRONG STATEMENTS ABOUT UNIVERSITY.

Institution Must Call to Its Aid the Best Teachers In all the World.

Our State University Dare Not Be Provincial in any Sense of the Word.

Teaching Force at Berkeley Is Fifty Per Cent Too Small For Work.

Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, the new President of the University of California, who on Tuesday made his initial utterance to its students in ringing and graceful terms, today gives the public of the third most populous county in the State, through its home paper, THE TRIBUNE, some very interesting views about his new charge:

"I have not come to Berkeley," said President Wheeler, "with any finished or formulated policy regarding the development of the University. I have felt that the first thing for me to do is to learn the existing conditions and the needs of California. When I understand these, I believe that a policy will easily emerge. But, there are some things that must belong to the character and quality of any university wherever it is located, and for these things we shall stand.

COSMOPOLITAN POPULATION.

"In some sense, a university rises above place and time, particularly above place. Rightly understood, nothing is more cosmopolitan than a university. It regards the highest needs of men as men. And men are much the same wherever you find them, in all their highest needs.

"California represents the most cosmopolitan population and most cosmopolitan instincts in life that the world has at the present day to exhibit. Its University must be, therefore, uncompromisingly a world university. It dare not be in any sense provincial. So, then, the first thing must be that the University of California calls to its aid the best talent in teachers and in methods of instruction that the world affords. Men must be taken without reference to locality or origin, for what they are as exponents and interpreters of what is highest in the civilized life of man. The State of California, and all Californians, are known to want the best things. They are never satisfied with anything that is second-class, out of style or behind the times. I believe that the State of California will respond, if asked, to make it possible that our University should be put in a position to take its place at the very front of the world's institutions of learning.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY.

"The University always thus far has maintained an admirable standard of academic integrity. Its reputation is of the best. Through thick and thin it has kept true to the intellectual faith. University men all through the East know very well that the standards which the University of California has maintained for its scholarship and degrees are of the highest. It is a matter of common repute that the University has, with admiral rigidness, adhered to the standards which it has laid down in its published statements and announcements. Its corps of teachers is a most excellent one. Many of its professors are known through their publications, as well as through their personal relations, as leaders in the fields which they represent. They are doing magnificent work, often at a great disadvantage.

TEACHING FORCE.

"The teaching force of the University seems to me, so far as my present knowledge guides me, to be 50 per cent too small for the work it is called upon to do. The more I see of the situation the more it becomes a marvel to me that so small a force of men can accomplish such work.

"No other university in the world has laid upon it such a tremendous burden as the University of California. Its relations to the school system of the State necessitate that professors should be frequently absent from their class and home work while engaged in visiting the schools.

"This is a work that must be done. I believe in it most enthusiastically. I shall do everything in my power to advance it—everything in my power to make the University helpful to the schools of all parts of the State. In order that our men may have time for this work, and that at the same time the work of the University be not neglected, we must have a great increase of the teaching force. The number of students has doubled without any corresponding increase of teaching force. That is all wrong. It brings us face to face with an actual emergency. It must be attended to immediately. I shall give my first attention to the study of this problem.

A LIBRARY.

"Another thing of the first importance is the Library. Our professors are isolated from books and from the opportunities of investigation by their residence here. It is absolutely necessary, in order to build up our University, that it shall have the greatest and richest Library in the country.

"If anybody wants to give money now to the University of California there is nothing that will give such ready and satisfactory returns as what he will give for its Library. In order to have a proper Library, we need first of all a fireproof library building. Instead of the sixty or seventy thousand volumes now at Berkeley we ought to have half a million. Instead of five or six thousand dollars a year to spend for it, we ought to have thirty thousand dollars a year at least.

"This is only the beginning of the University's needs. The needs are so enormous, so many, that I cannot go on to talk of them further. It is the very magnificence of the opportunity which constitutes and creates the need."

PLAN FOR BONDS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

How the Central Club Proposes to Spend $2,000,000.

All Sections of the City Satisfied With the Award.

Annual Election of Officers at Meeting Last Night.

The Associated Improvement Clubs finished last night their deliberations on the report of its executive committee in regard to the disposition to be made with the money to be raised by a bond election for $2,000,000. There was very little friction in the meeting, the delegates from all of the clubs making concessions to a certain extent.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS.

The recommendations of the executive committee as they have been amended are as follows:

For a sewer system, $15,000; for raising the Twelfth street dam, $20,000; for improving Telegraph avenue, $100,000; for improving San Pablo avenue, $100,000; for improving East Fourteenth street, $50,000; for West Oakland wharf, $300,000; for school houses and sites, $200,000; for acquiring and filling in land at North Oakland, $35,000; for West Oakland park, $20,000; for East Oakland park, $15,000; for the Sather tract, $200,000; for boulevards, $100,000.

In the absence of President N. K. Foster, vice-president George W. Drake called the meeting to order.

NEW DELEGATES.

The application of the Italiano-Americano Club of Golden Gate to be represented in the Associated clubs was reported upon favorably and the following were admitted as members: Jos. Boselo, Joseph Gemanio and Joseph Ribito.

The report of the executive committee was then taken up where it had been left at the last meeting.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER.

B. H. Welch stated that the people of East Oakland were dissatisfied with the amount appropriated for the improvement of East Fourteenth street. He wished that the matter might be reconsidered.

H. W. Watkins thought that the recommendations of the executive committee should be followed. It would expedite matters to suspend further action on the matter and adopt the recommendations as a whole. The Council would sift the matter thoroughly before it was finally disposed of.

A. F. Coffin thought that it should be designated in the report that the club favored purchasing a strip of land along the shore of Lake Merritt for a boulevard, also a part of the Sather tract.

H. T. Burns did not approve of adopting the report as a whole.

Secretary Naismith called attention to the fact that the report could not be recommended as a whole as the club had decided to consider it seriatum.

B. H. Welch started to talk when R. M. Pierce arose to a point of order saying there was no question before the meeting being discussed.

He ruled that the next item of the report be taken up, namely the West Oakland wharf.

B. H. Welch said that from a canvas in East Oakland he had found the general opinion that the amount appropriated for East Fourteenth street would not be sufficient. He moved for a reconsideration of the matter. The motion was seconded by H. T. Burns.

W. C. Wallace said he was opposed to any recommendation. The matter had been duly considered. If the appropriation for East Fourteenth was increased, he would ask for $150,000 for Telegraph avenue.

A. F. Coffin said he was not opposed to a reconsideration, but it would not be policy to recommend ridiculous figures. The Council would not consider them if they were so. It did not seem probable that East Fourteenth street would require more than half of what would be needed for Telegraph or San Pablo avenues.

The motion for a recommendation was lost.

WEST OAKLAND WHARF.

J. C. Bullock moved that the report of the Council for the West Oakland wharf be adopted, with the reduction of $15,000 made at the last meeting.

J. R. Dewar moved that the report be amended so as to stipulate that the wharf should not be constructed further south than Twenty-second street.

H. W. Watkins suggested that Nineteenth street would be a better limit and the suggestion was accepted by Mr. Dewar.

Recess was then taken to allow Mr. Watkins to explain a map he had representing the bay shore and the possible location for a wharf and water front.

N. J. Herby spoke some length upon the advantages that would accrue to Oakland from having a wharf on its water front. In time this city would rival San Francisco as its facilities were equally good if not better.

W. C. Wallace supplemented the remarks of Mr. Herby, saying that if the project was carried out, the various steamship lines would be glad to secure wharfage there.

W. W. Morrison moved that the report of the Committee for $600,000 for the wharf be adopted and the motion was unanimously carried.

SCHOOL APPORTIONMENT.

The appropriation for schools and sites was next taken up.

Mr. Pierce said that while there was not a great need for new sites, there was a great need for improvements and new buildings. At the Bay school the children could not be accommodated. New buildings were required in different places and $200,000 would not cover them all.

Secretary Naismith thought that $550,000 was sufficient to make all improvements. The cost of the High school building with the other buildings was only about $400,000. Surely half that amount would suffice now. This would be supplemented by the money expended by the school Board.

W. W. Morrison said he had never heard of having too much money for educational purposes. It would be good policy to allow the apportionment stand as it would help out the bond election.

A. F. Coffin thought the amount might be cut to $185,000.

R. M. Price said it would not look well to cut the appropriation down when so much was expended for improving the streets.

H. W. Watkins and J. C. Bullock were also opposed to reducing the apportionment.

The amendment making the amount $185,000 was lost. The report of the committee for $200,000 was carried.

NORTH OAKLAND MARSH.

J. R. Dewar said that he thought the $35,000 recommended for acquiring and filling in the marsh at North Oakland would be sufficient.

The report of the committee on that item was adopted.

PARK IMPROVEMENTS.

The appropriation of $50,000 for the improvement of West Oakland and East Oakland parks was then taken up.

Secretary Naismith moved that the amount be reduced to $35,000.

Mr. Welch suggested that that amount be divided into two sums, $15,000 for East Oakland and $20,000 for West Oakland.

With these amendments the motion was carried to reduce the amount to $35,000.

PARK AND BOULEVARD.

The park and boulevard fund of $400,000 was then taken up.

Samuel Swift moved that $160,000 be applied to the purchase of the Simson tract.

A. F. Coffin said that he did not believe the people would vote for bonds to purchase the Simson tract as it was not within the city limits.

Samuel Swift interrupted the speaker by saying that the Sather tract was not within the city limits either.

Mr. Coffin said it was within the city limits. The club should be careful to recommend some place that would be acceptable to the people.

J. S. Naismith spoke at length upon the desirability of the Sather tract for a park. It was located centrally and was fully worth the price. People could walk to a park as the Sather tract while they would have to pay car fare to go to the Simson tract.

Mr. Swift said that it would take $10,000 a year to put water on the Sather tract, while there was plenty of water at the Simson tract. People would not walk to the Sather park.

J. R. Dewar said he would favor the Simson tract in order to conciliate East Oakland.

I. I. Boak said that the district surrounding Lake Merritt was intended by nature for a park.

R. M. Price thought that the Sather tract should be purchased while it could be obtained. The Simson tract could be secured ten years from now when the people were ready for it.

A. F. Coffin moved that $300,000 be applied for the purchase of the Sather tract.

Samuel Swift moved an amendment that $160,000 be devoted to the purchase of the Simson tract.

The amendment was lost and Mr. Coffin's motion carried.

A. F. Coffin moved that the remaining $100,000 be devoted to constructing a boulevard, part of which should extend on the north-west arm of the lake.

W. W. Morrison moved an amendment to the effect that the $100,000 be left for boulevard purposes in general.

The amendment was lost.

H. W. Watkinson thought that a different course for a boulevard other than around the Adams property might be considered. Mr. Adams might want an exorbitant price for the strip of land and thus use most of the $100,000. If another way out could be secured, the money might be expended in constructing an actual boulevard.

E. M. Walsh said that he would be in favor of having the boulevard on Perry street and Moss avenue. He made a motion to amend so that the recommendation would be to have a boulevard connecting the different boulevards and to finish the boulevard begun at the Lake.

Mr. Watkins thought the recommendation should be more definite as to the location of the boulevard.

The amendment proposed by Mr. Walsh was carried unanimously.

J. S. Naismith suggested that some action be taken or the report of the executive committee be adopted as a whole, as amended by the Club.

A motion to this effect made by Mr. Watkins was carried, also a motion to have the executive committee present the recommendations to the Council.

E. M. Walsh moved that the executive committee be present at the meeting of the Committee of the Whole of the Council Monday evening and present the views of the club. The motion was carried.

A motion by J. R. Dewar to ask the Council to consider the recommendation as a whole, as far as possible, was carried.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was then taken up.

Dr. L. A. Teague moved that the present officers be continued in office, as they had not been elected long enough to show what they could do.

The motion was carried and the secretary cast the ballot for the following: President, Dr. N. K. Foster; Vice-president, George W. Drake; Secretary, J. S. Naismith; Treasurer, C. A. Chichester; Marshal, N. J. Herby.

The meeting then adjourned for two weeks.

MODJESKA WILL BE AT MACDONOUGH.

Those who are at all familiar with the character of Marie Antoinette and the exciting events of her career, as described in the various historical annals, may well wonder why the subject has not long ago been seized by the dramatist. Only one play under this title has been presented in this country. This was in the repertoire of Ristori, and written by an Italian, the obstacle which prevented it being popular, and probably the reason for its not being translated, was its monotonous gloom, for it dwelt almost entirely upon the pathetic and tragic events of the last days of the French Queen. A cursory perusal of the history of Marie Antoinette will quickly show that there is scarcely a phase of human emotion which the play writer is not able to utilize. From the time of her departure from the Austrian ports, to become the wife of Louis XVI. of France, until her summons to the guillotine, it is one constant succession of romantic, turbulent and tragic events, that read more like one of Hugo's novels than a recital of historical facts. The delineation of this character by a genius such as Modjeska promises a rare treat indeed, especially if, as is said to be the case, she is to portray Antoinette among the gayables of the dissolute court when she was the wife in name only and when the lack of wholesome affection from her royal spouse made her the creature of her environment. If this is so, it will furnish Modjeska with just those contrasts of mood and temperament by which the greatness of the players' art may be so easily measured.

King Louis, by no means a grateful part, will of course fall to Mr. John E. Kellerd. This well known actor is a student, and he is credited with the artist's power of analysis, which should enable him to show how the fate of his queen and the hastening of the revolution, were due as much to his lack of any of the usual royal attributes, and his mean vacillating nature as to any other cause. There are of course numerous other characters in which all will be intensely interested, such as Mirabeau and Lafayette, and all are apparently to be played by actors of tested experience. The scenic investiture for such a subject is only less important an item than that of the supporting cast. That this department will be in keeping with the picturesqueness of the theme and the fame of the star goes without saying. Modjeska will open her engagement at the Macdonough next Monday

School Apportionments.

County Superintendent of Schools T. O. Crawford is sending to the different districts the school apportionments which are now available since the State Controller has compromised on the settlements to be made with County Treasurer Feidler.

The rate per average daily attendance is $5.40 instead of $4.50, as published yesterday.

No Abatement in the Iron and Steel Boom.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Reviewing the situation in the iron and metal trade, the Iron Age will say today:

Interest continues to center in the pig-iron market, in which there is accumulating evidence of the fact that the entire product up to the summer of 1900 will be urgently needed. The event of the week has been the purchase by the leading Chicago interest of about 100,000 tons of Bessemer pig in the valleys and elsewhere for delivery during the first half of 1900. In addition to these sales a leading interest in Pittsburg has taken 30,000 tons, delivery to begin at once, and a valley plant has contracted for 20,000 tons for the first half. Altother at least 170,000 tons have been sold in the Central West during the past week.

In foundry irons the demand continues quite active, and while occasionally new irons are seeking buyers for future delivery at some concession, the market is strong, for the whole of the six months of 1900. Producers are quite generally behind in deliveries, and the scarcity of spot iron continues. It is hoped, however, that during the course of the winter the furnaces will be able to catch up. There is a report that some Southern iron is being offered, to be returned from England. It looks as though the reports of sales of English low phosphorus pig had been exaggerated, so far as their magnitude is concerned. Well informed parties in the trade are unable to trace more than about 6,000 tons. We note a sale of 5,000 tons of Eastern low phosphorus pig at $25.75 at furnace.

The steel situation is rather perplexing. One very large consuming interest has been forced to day idle a number of plants and it is reported to be drawing quite heavily on stocks of manufactured goods. This is partly due to slow deliveries of steel contracted for. It is partly due to slow deliveries of steel contracted for. It is the impression in the trade that large consuming interests have contracted for billets for next year's delivery to an extent far greater than is generally supposed. Report has it that two recent contracts call for close to 200,000 tons. The price basis for a good deal of the steel being contracted for next year is about $35.

This is in line with what is being done in steel rails. Last week the makers had a conference in this city, the result of which was that $33. East and West, is being named on orders for next year.

It is estimated that the total tonnage already booked for next year is about 250,000 tons, about equally divided between Eastern and Western mills. This includes some recent Western orders, among which may be mentioned 50,000 tons for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and 25,000 tons for the St. Paul Railroad. The great trunk lines east of Chicago have as yet placed no orders, nor have the majority of the railroads arranged for their requirements.

Negotiations with the Pennsylvania and other large systems are now proceeding, however.

In other directions, too, the railroad demand continues to absorb large quantities of bars and car material. The Illinois Steel Company denies that it has entered into a contract with the Pressed Steel Company for 400 tons plates per day.

While in large lines a fair part of the 1900 requirements are being placed, the reports come from the smaller trade that the present prices are causing some hesitation in buying for the future. It seems that many are beginning to feel that it is the best policy to await developments.

Heir to Millions May Race Across the Country.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Unless the ship on which is Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, the reputed heir to the larger portion of the wealth of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, which is expected to reach San Francisco Friday, is late, he will reach New York on Wednesday next. All plans and preparations for the speedy sending of the young millionaire from San Francisco to New York have been arranged. In case he so desires there will be no stops, no delays, and he will come through from the Pacific to the Atlantic in quicker time than any passenger ever made the run.

The private car of the Vanderbilt family has been sent West and is awaiting the arrival of the new head of the family. He is on the China mail steamer. It is possible that it may be sighted late today, but Friday certainly unless an accident occurs.

In anticipation of the arrival of the young man who, rumor says, is to wield the Vanderbilt millions, the connecting lines of the Vanderbilt roads have made every preparation to see that he reaches New York with the least possible delay. In case he reaches the Golden Gate in time to take one of the regular trains there will be no special train. If, however, he should arrive between trains, a special will leave for the East. It will follow the regular train until it catches it and the special car will then be attached to the regular train. But if Mr. Vanderbilt wishes to continue on the special it will come East. A representative of the Vanderbilt interests will ascertain his wishes when he reaches San Francisco. If he decides on a special train one of the greatest runs in the history of the country will be made. In any event it is thought a special will be used from Chicago to New York. The distance is now covered in twenty-four hours, but a special can cut off four hours of this time.

The arrival of Mr. Vanderbilt will be awaited with a great amount of interest, because soon after his arrival all guess work as to the contents of his father's will will be ended. It may be that he will be met in San Francisco by some of the lawyers of the family with a copy of the will, and that before his arrival in this city it will be filed for probate.
